Mr. TREMAIN differed with Mr. BUTLER as to his statement that no State had power to do as had been done here, and cited the statutes of New York and a case where a man had been indicted for the same offence while suffering imprisonment for centempt. He argued in support of the authority of the House, which, he said, had power to expel its own members. to expel its own members.

Arr. MAYNARD, of Tenn., at one o'clock called up the special order for that hour—the Senate finance bill—and, after a few general remarks, said he proposed to call the previous question, and, if the call was seconded, to ask that the amendments which gentlemen desired to offer be printed in the Congressional Record.

Mr. DAWES said he hoped the House would understand the proposition, that if members would second the demand, and thus cut off amendments, they could then go down to posterity with the amendments they would have offered printed in the Record.

Mr. HANDALL, of Pa., protested that this proceeding was not in accordance with an understanding in the Committee on Banking and Currency. The committee had, with but one negative vote, agreed that two amendments abould be offered—one to strike out the first and second sections, and the other in relation to the cancellation of the greenbacks.

Mr. MAYNARD denied that thore was such Mr. RANDALL, in return, charged that Mr. MAYNARD was making a distinction where there was none. The subject was before the committee, and Mr. MAYNARD had himself put the question,

Mr. RANDALL, of Pa., hoped the leave would

Mr. MAYNARD said he took the entire rereponsibility of all he had done. He had acted here in his capacity as a Representative.

Mr. RANDALL said he did not intend that the gentleman should escape from the charge that he had acted in bad faith.

Mr. MAYNARD replied that he would not bandy words on that question. His position in the House and before the country did not depend upon a discussion of this nature. He was not to be DETERRED FROM RIS DUTY by any assertion of bad faith here or elsewhere.
The House has passed upon the question, and it is in bad taste for the gentleman to now bring it is in bad taste for the goatesman to how oring to up again.

Mr. RANDALL renewed the charge that the gentleman had acted in bad faith and unfairly. He [Mr. Mayraani] had himself put the ques-tion in the committee, and it was decided that amendments could be offered.

IMPEACHMENT OF DURELL.

Mr. WILSON, of Ind., from the Committee on Judiciary, reported back the resolutions for the impeachment of Judge Dureil, of Louisians, and moved that they be laid on the table.

Mr. BUTLER, of Mass, said that in the investigation of the case they had not found any absolute corruption, but they presented the articles of impeachment in consequence of the issue of his midnight order. In that he had exceeded his uritediction. Judge Dureil had since resigned, and a successor had been appointed, and hence there was nothing to be gained by pushing the impeachment.

Mr. NIBLACK, of Ind., inquired whether the committee had considered the question whether an officer could escape impeachment by resignation? IMPEACHMENT OF DURELL. an officer could escape impeasiment by resignation?

Mr. BUTLER had no doubt that Dureil could be impeached yet, but the punishment would only extend to prohibiting him from helding office in the future. He was an old man, and there could be no advantage in further proceeding toward impeachment.

Mr. NIBLACK inquired if it was not true that Judge Dureil was more than any other man responsible for the present condition of affairs in Louisians?

Mr. BUTLER said his midnight order had, deubtless, brought on a conflict. Mr. BUTLER said his midnight order had, deubtiess, brought on a conflict.

Messrs. TREMAINE, ELDREDGE, POLAND, WILSON and other members of the Judiciary Committee explained their positions in the matter. They nearly all admitted that Durell deserved impeachment, but, in view of his resignation, they would not push it.

The Democrats, however, thought that Durell should still be impeached as a warning to other judges who contemplated exceeding their jurisdiction. The resolution was laid on the table by a vote of 138 years to 85 mays.

THE CASE OF RUSTEED.

Mr. WILSON, of Ind., also from the same committee, reported back the resolution for the impeachment of Judge Busteed, of Alabama, with the same reference as in the case of Durell, Busteed having also resigned.

Mr. THEMAIN, its arguing the case, contended that an officer could not be impeached after resignation.

Mr. BUTLER, of Mass., characterized such a position as a legal heresy, because if it was true any one might escape by resignation.

position as a legal heresy, because if it was true any one might escape by resignation. The motion to lay on the table was adopted vive Mr. BUTLER, of Mass., gave notice that on Mr. BUTLEB, of Mass., gave notice that on Monday next he would offer a resolution that pending the consideration of the civil rights bill no dilatory motion should be entertained.

Mr. SWANN, of Md., presented the petition of G. Lane Taneyhill, M. U., and other members of the Baltimore Medical Association; John Morris, M. D., president, and other members of the Medical and Surgical Society of Baltimore; W. G. Harrison, Jr., president, and other members of the Palhalogical Society of Baltimore; J. B. Mo-Kee, M.
